Hey Masco!

What's more fun than flipping through your old yearbooks and photo albums to see pictures of you and your classmates as youngsters? That's what this year's Mitobo staff asked themselves at the beginning of this year, and we came up with a conclusive answer: nothing! The 2010-2011 yearbook takes a peek into our shared past, adding depth and reflection to our collective present.

We spent hours pouring over Boxford, Topsfield, and Middleton's elementary school yearbooks to rediscover where we all came from. We laughed at the goofy faces we made as kids, sighed at the adorable, and groaned as we saw our awkward stages flip past us.We even decided to recreate some of the more memorable pictures we found. While we discovered that some of us are mirror images of our kindergarten-munchkin selves, others showed how truly far we've come since our crayon-wielding days.

This year's Mitobo pays tribute to the clashing of our childhood and high school experiences through the theme "Evolution of a Chieftain." We start out as lowly single-celled kindergartners, and end up as fully evolved adult seniors.

As a staff, we loaded every page with photos, recreations, commentaries, fads, styles, and stories from our past that are sure to elicit flashbacks and nostalgia. For instance, we researched which Crayola Crayon colors were the most popular when we were growing up, and used them as the basis for our color palette. We asked some of the people who knew us best, our own elementary school teachers, what we were really like as kids.

Whether you are new to the Tri-Town, or have spent your entire life with the same group of friends, you will be sure to relate to the toothless grins of kindergartners, the awkward middle school relationships, and the emerging independence of the high school experience. So as you flip through the pages of this book, we hope that you are able to look back fondly on your past, as we celebrate the accomplishments of our 2010-2011 school year.

Enjoy!

The Evolution

The Masconomus FreshmanOObus, more commonly known as the freshman, and even more commonly know as FROSH, have many defining characteristics. Typically seen being dragged down by the weight of their own backpacks, the frosh have much difficulty moving about the hallways. This forces them to cluster together in small immobile herds, resulting in the annoyance to the other species.

Masconomus FreshmanOObus

The Masconomus Sophanonymous, or the "Lost Species", are the invisible children of the Masconomet environment. A skiddish breed of student who are in the awkward transition period after their frosh phase but before the Juniostressus period. They remain unnoticed by the other species no matter how hard they try to stand out.

The Juniostressus is the overworked, zombie-like species. They consume gallons upon gallons of coffee per week making them infamous for their caffine addiction. They constantly prey upon teachers for extra credit opportunities and that elusive "A" on their report card.

Advisors Corner

This years edition of Mitobo marks the eighth yearbook that I'm fortunate enough to have been a part of. When I think of the great times I've had during my years at Masconomet, many of them revolve around the creation of the yearbook. The yearbook staff spends a lot of time together, and by the end of the project, a bond has been created that will link all of us together for many years to come. Seemingly ironic, many of the lesser enjoyable times have also been a result of my often unenviable position as yearbook advisor. The excitement at tearing open that first crate of new yearbooks, taking one out, and thumbing through the pages is an amazing rush. However, that experience is usually short-lived, and is often replaced with a sobering, head-hanging sense of doom when the first "goof" is discovered. Another mistake arises shortly thereafter, and then a third. Sadly, the "new yearbook smell" evaporates as quickly as the value of new car as soon as it leaves the dealer's lot.

Our Josten's representative, Tom Keeley, who has been helping schools to create yearbooks since I was in high school back in the early 1980's, often reminds me he has yet to see a yearbook make the journey all the way from concept to production without some mistakes. It's an unavoidable consequence of the process. However, the accolades of producing a yearbook that is 99.7% accurate are largely overshadowed by one with an error-content of .3%, even though they are the one in the same. This is usually because that .3% often presents itself as a misspelled name, a misplaced parent message, or an incorrect square or portrait in the senior section. Unlike the SAT's, MCAS, a lost library book, or a parking ticket, yearbook errors can't be retaken, replaced, or simply paid to go away. They are printed in ink, to the order of 950 copies, and become an official document that will be permanently housed within the walls of the school's library, offices, and archives.

Several years ago, I received a telephone call from an upset parent. The parent message that she created and sent in to us had apparently not made it into the yearbook. She informed me that she managed a department of 35 workers for a well-known, national telecommunications corporation. She wanted to know how it was that I allowed such a mistake to happen, and curtly told me that it such mistakes are not tolerated in the department she ran. My reply was this question: "What would you do if tomorrow morning, all of your employees had been replaced with 16 and 17 year old high school students. What would you say to them when they told you that they couldn't work late during a deadline crunch because they had to get their hair done before the prom, had to go to work at their after-school job, or had three tests the next day and needed to study. How would you respond to a student who informs you that he didn't meet his deadline because his dad got called in to work and needed the car? Or to the athlete who's team made it to the championship and is getting dismissed early to make the two hour trip to the big game?" After a few moments of silence, the reply from the other line simply said, "Sorry, I hadn't thought of it quite that way. Thank you for all that you do." I thanked her in reply, jotted down her name and address, and proceeded to mail her a refund for the parent message that, to this day, has never been found.

Good Luck Class of 2011, and a special thank you to my yearbook staff for all that you do. -Mr. Y

Dedication

Melissa Stanley

Melissa Stanley betters the lives of students and faculty members every single day, and it is because of her generosity that she has earned the Dedication of this yearbook. As an English teacher she stays late and is devoted to accelerating the education of our students.

As a class advisor she works enthusiastically with the senior class as they finish their high school careers. Stanley attended Georgetown High School in a class of just 74. In such a small class it is easy to stand out and difficult to hide, Stanley was the English nerd of her class. Always found with a book under her arm and a love for literature, Stanley graduated and went onto Fitchburg State College. Ever since she was young, Stanley wanted to be an English teacher and in 1998 she began working at Masconomet Middle School. Within a year she was teaching in the High School and living her dream. When not in school, Stanley enjoys pottery and the ceramic arts as well as hiking and traveling. Stanley has been to England, France, Washington D.C., and visits New York City frequently. Pottery reminds her of when she "used to make mud pies as a child, the clay is very relaxing." In school Stanley co-advises the senior class with Ms. Prindiville.

"The senior class is fun, energetic and easy to work with," said Stanley. "They always rise to the occasion when called for." It is due to her enthusiasm in school and overall dedication to the students that this 2011 yearbook has been dedicated to Melissa Stanley.

Retirees

Mr. Donavel

David Donavel has been a part of the Masconomet English Department for many years. He has served as the English Department Head for the last nine of his thirty five year career at Masco. Donavel oversees an extensive English program in addition to teaching AP English. Donavel also teaches classes at Northern Essex Community College. Always approaching his classes with a cheerful and humorous attitude, Donavel will be remembered by Masco students as a bright addition to their days. When he is not busy writing his tenth novel, Donavel plans to spend his retirement traveling, fishing, and possibly starting a nice garden. Donavel also looks forward to throwing away his alarm clock, and watching the grass grow.

As an integral member of the Masconomet English department since the fall of 1986, Deborah Shapiro has helped shape her department to the curriculum seen today. Shapiro has brought her passion for academics and innovative spirit to bring positive change on the school. The concept of an elective-based senior english curriculum arose out of her concern for students to be engaged in their classes. Shapiro will also be remembered for her generosity and personable, caring attitude towards her students. Always willing to help a student with a school or personal problem, Shapiro has made each of her students as well as her peers feel supported and cared for. The successful Advanced Placement teacher will be greatly missed by many people at Masconomet.

Ms. Shapiro

Ms. Spraker

Anne Spraker has been a familiar face in the Masconomet Library for many years. Celebrating her retirement in November of this year, Spraker leaves behind the reputation of a helpful and cheerful presence behind the reference desk. Always wiling to help students in locating a research book or article, Spraker strived to spread her extensive knowledge to everyone. She will be remembered for her caring attitude and warm personality towards those who shared her love of books. Spraker hopes to spend her retirement reading and relaxing.

Serving as head coach of the football team and athletic director for 22 years, Jim Pugh has been the face of Masco athletics for the last two decades. A special education teacher in the high school for 32 years, Pugh has always offered his careful and thoughtful guidance to all of his students. As a mentor to his players, he has led the team though many successful seasons with his determination and attitude towards sportsmanship. A valued and well known member of the Masconomet Community, Coach Pugh will be missed by his students and football players, as well as all those who have had the distinct pleasure of working with him. Pugh values his years at this school, "The commitment and dedication I have seen through all these years makes Masco a wonderful place to establish roots. I am glad that 32 years ago Masco gave me this opportunity."

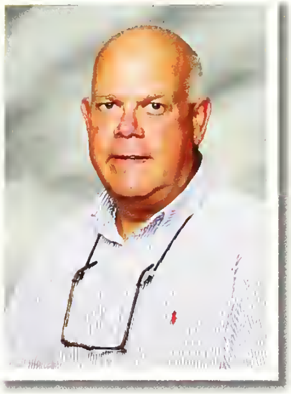
Art

Department Head



Mr. Meinelt

Masconomet's Art Department has upheld a consistent tradition of excellence based on the efforts of outstanding faculty, and a curriculum that provides a variety of courses. The program is special because it focuses on self-improvement in both artistic skill and technical understanding of the elements of design. The department takes pride in providing a program that emphasizes making art and solving complex visual problems, while encouraging students to develop their ability to intelligently communicate about art.

Business & Computer Education

The Masconomet Business and Computer Education Department offers an advanced curriculum in Business, Computer Science, Finance, Mass Media and Technology. Dedicated to preparing students for the challenges they will face in the professional world, the department seeks to extend lessons beyond the classroom by teaching students real-life skills. Their main focus is to teach students how to use the skills and technology that they will encounter in their professional endeavors. The committed faculty is able to prepare their students for a career in the fast-paced business and technology industries.

The English Department believes that in order to succeed in any facet of life, one of the most important tools is the ability to express one's self both in speech and clear writing. The faculty makes it their goal to help develop and nurture the personal voice of each student. Through the study of literature, the teachers hope to transfer a love of reading and the ability to think actively about issues that extend off of the pages and into the lives of young people.

Mr. Donavel

Foreign Language

Department Head

Ms. Mirra

In an increasingly small global community, the study of language has grown more and more essential to everyday life. Masco students will one day find themselves in an environment where they are able to utilize and benefit from their high school foreign language experience. With a passionate faculty that seeks to share not only language but a sense of culture, students are excited to see past what is right in front of them to experience life in new and different locales.

The health department at Masconomet exists to keep the student body healthy and ready to learn each day at school, as well as to teach students to maintain a lifestyle that will allow their continued well being. The health education faculty ensures that students are informed and able to make decisions concerning their body and immediate health. In classes such as Intro to Med, First Responder, and EMT, students can learn how to make the right choices in emergency situations, choices that can save lives. First responder and EMT also give students the opportunity to become certified, and to learn skills necessary to pursue a future medical career. The health department allows students to have a greater comprehension of the body and the issues surrounding it.

Library

Ms. Sheehy

Ms. VanLenten

The Library for many is an escape from the hectic daily bustle of school. Here you can kick back in a reclining chair and catch up on homework or complete your research for a paper. It is also a gathering place where students can chat with their friends and work on projects after school. Always ready with support and a full knowledge of the Dewey Decimal system are the library staff, who are guaranteed to brighten your day with a smile or the book that you have been hopelessly searching for. The library staff welcomed a new member this year, in the wake of the retirement of Ms. Spraker. Ms. Sheehy hopes to educate students in the many uses and functions of the library, making it more enjoyable for all.

Mathematics

Department Head

Ms. Tenanty

Just as two plus two will always equal four, the Math Department will always offer education that has a multitude of real world applications. The dedicated faculty attempts to show students that math teaches practical life lessons and provides useful problem solving tools. Through events such as the Architecture Fair and Engineering Day, the Math Department succeeds in showing students the depth and scope of math, encouraging students to solve problems of their own.

Physical Education

Subscribing to the philosophy that a healthy body is essential to the growth of a healthy mind, the Physical Education Department seeks to keep students active and allow them to have fun. The variety of classes extend from yoga and self defense, which teach them to find their center and feel safe in any environment, to Project Adventure, where teambuilding skills and courage are tested through the rigors of the ropes course. There are classes for every student at Masconomet who wishes to live a healthier life.

With so much of current educational instruction dependent upon technology, it is imperative that the network system is functioning properly, and our MIS team does a great job at making that happen!

Science & Technology

The faculty of the Science, Technology and Engineering Department believe learning is best achieved by a tangible understanding of subject matter. They achieve this understanding through labs, demonstrations, readings and projects. The learning experiences in science, technology and engineering classes promote understanding through hands-on experiences. As students mature, so do the boundaries of the scientific theories they study. Well-developed laboratory skills and the ability to discuss and explain findings are the foundation of the science program. The various electives offered in the department provide opportunities for students to apply and expand what they learned in core physical and biological sciences and appreciate the roles of science in other disciplines.

Social Studies

The Social Studies faculty brings excitement and enthusiasm to the subject. In a world where connections span past country and continental borders, the study of the world and its interrelations are increasingly important. The department also plays a significant role in our district's global education initiative through its core and elective curriculum. Using materials from today as well as historical texts, the department examines how people lived in the past compared to modern times. Real world applications and a strong foundation in critical thinking extend the already diverse topic of social studies into other subjects.

1. What do you think goes on upstairs?

Magic tricks.
-Mike Kehoe
I don't know, but I don't really want to.
-Matt Neidhardt
Shenanigans.
-Anonymous

3. Where did question 2 go?

It was stolen! The nerve!
-Emily Feltault
To Narnia.
-Anonymous
To late homeroom where it spontaneously combusted rather than doing cafeteria duty.
-Anonymous

4. When I was in elementary school I . . .?

Wore a big fluffy orange jacket, I don't wear it anymore . . . in school.
-Anonymous
Actually learned how to walk in the hallways, I guess some people slept through that.

5. Do you feel forgotten this year? If so, how does that make you feel?

I'd rather discuss this with Dr. Phil.
-Anonymous

I wish I could be forgotten by my chemistry teacher.
-Anonymous

That's rude. Have some spaghetti.
-Zach Turcotte

7. What evolutionary trait (if any) differentiates you from the freshman class?

A brain, opposable thumbs, social acceptance.
-Anonymous

When its cold out we wear more than yoga pants and a tank top.
-Anonymous

9. Crayons or Markers?

Crans.
-Matt Neidhardt

Were not Freshman anymore, we use markers.
-Anonymous

Crayons! Who doesn't love tickle-me-pink and razzle dazzle red?
-Emily Feltault

6. Who is Shakey Joe?

My cousin's, uncle's, mother's, old roommate's brother.
-Amanda Getchell

He is a man of many disguises, ultimately saving small freshman and stealing homework. He works for neither good nor evil.
-Anonymous

The mayor of Java City
-Emily Tucker

8. Do you feel threatened by the freshman class?

They're 4 feet tall. What do YOU think?
-Ginger Snap

Not at all, I feel like I've arrived in Oz, with the munchkins coming out of everywhere, "We represent the lollipop kids..."
-Anonymous

Yes. They are small, but deadly. And besides, there are enough of them to create a small army.

Freshman Sophomore Semi

The Freshman Sophomore Semi this year was held at the Crowne Plaza in Middleton. Underclassmen were eager to dress up and dance the night away. This was the first of many collaborative events for the freshman class and the officers look forward to many more in the future.

"Dear Ms.Stanley and Mrs.Prindiville,

Thank you for all of your hard work and dedication over the past three years. We are so thankful we had you as advisors; you have made our high school experience extremely memorable. Among the many things that you have taught us, we have learned that one does not need to have years of experience to successfully lead a class. Through all of our challenges these past years you have helped us grow as people and come together as a class. We hope you continue to advise for many more years, sharing your experiences and guiding the way for future Masconomet graduates."

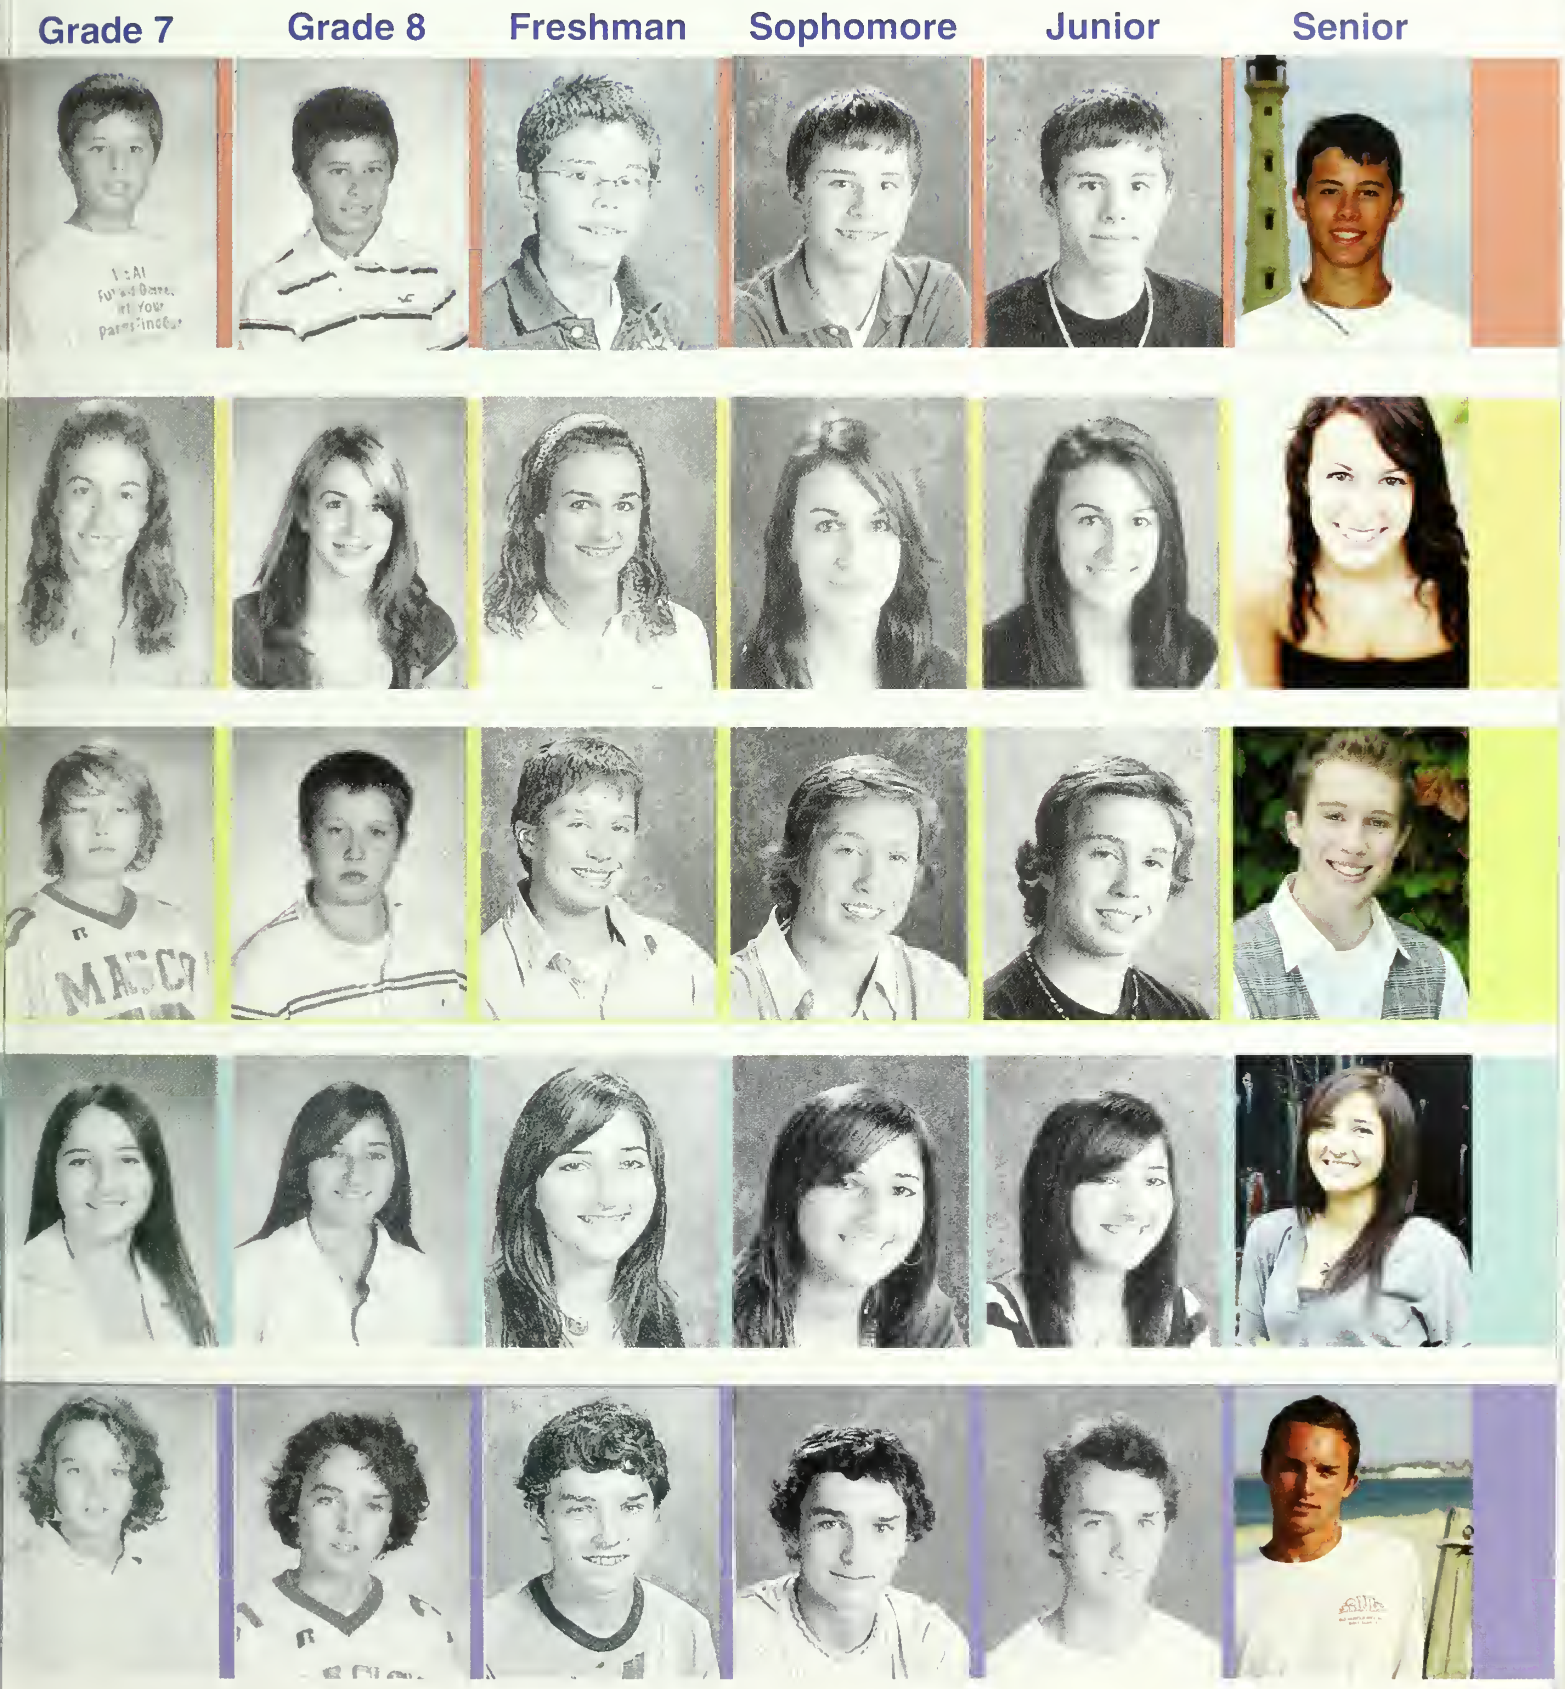
Evolution of a Yearbook

Pigtails, braces, glasses, turtle neck sweaters; our past yearbooks have seen it all! Here are some samples of the cutest, goofiest, and most iconic pictures from our elementary, middle school, and high school years.

Evolution of a Senior

Grade 1
Grade 2
Grade 3
Grade 4
Grade 5
Grade 6

The journey from first grade to senior year is transformative. Seniors Jack Hamburger, Rachael Wilson, Sam Arnold, Danielle Costas, and Jack Hoesly are great examples of the drastic changes a person can undergo in their growth into adulthood.



Grade 7
Grade 8

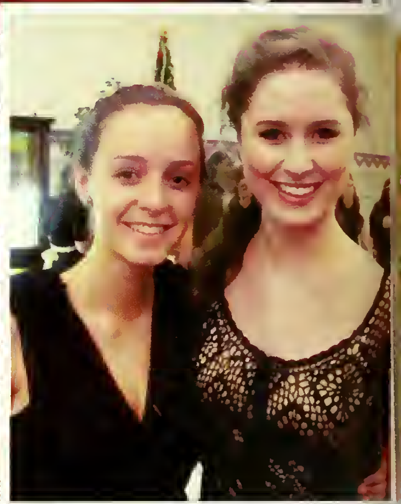
Senior



This winter the Senior Class demonstrated their holiday spirit by donning their best holiday dresses and sporting their most unusual and festive holiday sweaters at the Senior Holiday Dance. Students gathered at DiBurro's in Bradford for a night of food, dancing, and seasonal cheer. Some highlights of the evening included a canned food drive, a holiday raffle, and one Christmas sweater lit with lights and decorated with garland. D. J. Triggs "Let it Burn" all night.

Senior Holiday Dance

Senior Halloween Dance

Senior Class embraced their inner-child late this tober and channeled their creativity towards ming up with elaborate costumes for this year's nual Halloween Dance. These upperclassmen hered in the cafeteria for an evening of ncing and fun. Among the different costumes re a group of Care Bears, the Team of redibles, and a quartette of Swiss yodelers ding line dances.

7. Free Falling- Tom Petty
8. Goodbye Cruel World- Pink Floyd
9. Bittersweet Symphony- The Verve
10. Graduation- Vitamin C
11. The Freshmen- Verve Pipe

Go back to the 90's with this year's Senior Frolics! The seniors spent two weeks auditioning, rehearsing and running through a variety of skits. Some of the highlights were the "Synchronized Swimming" in trashcans to "Fighting Gravity" while playing ping-pong. In good humor the seniors also poked fun at underclassmen, teachers, and celebrities alike. Male hosts Sam Warner and Derek Schleer battled female hosts Danielle Dube and Taylor Hesse to see who could control the show. Overall, the senior class came together, bonded and put on a show to remember.

Angel- My best friend in high school since day 1. You've made high school one of the best experiences of my life thanks to all your jokes, craziness and good spirit. You been a great friend and I could only count the amount of good times over the bad. Only 1 fight bro, you the best kid. Hope we keep in touch.
Cassie- Also like a best friend to me and the best girlfriend a guy could ask for. You've done so much for me and I'd give up everything for you. You're such a good girl and thank you for everything and making me happy when I really needed someone. I love you Cassie.
My family- Mom and dad I know I haven't been the best son out there but you guys have made everything possible for me and thank you for everything, I love you guys.
The Chapman's- In my opinion the best host family around and thank you for all the good times. I know I haven't been as grateful as I could be but I really am thankful for you guys, so thank you so much for everything.

Mumma & Dad: Thank you for everything. You have given me the best opportunities and have put up with all my antics. I know you are always by my side no matter what. I love you.

Craig: I love you. I couldn't ask for a better big brother. I don't think you understand how much I look up to you. Without you to turn to, and keep me sane at crazy times I don't know where I would be.

To all my friends: You are my family. People may look at us and think we are crazy, loud, obnoxious, fill in whatever word you choose... but that's who we are, and I love it. You put up with my laugh, my nonsense, and my awful story telling, what else could I ask for? From our random adventures, to movie marathons, or game night, I always know that I will have a smile on my face and every stress will be taken away for that short amount of time. We finish each other's sentences, gross each other out, and go through everything together. No matter where we all go and how far we travel I will be at home when I am with you. I love you xoxo SHMEOWW!

The best times: laughing at the lunch table, friendly and supportive teachers, missing a week of school to go to Italy, reading as many books as possible, and writing my novel.
The worst times: one word...DRAMA! but the present is more important than the past.
I can go on naming all the people who have been a positive influence in my life but the list would spread across the globe so I will just say THANK YOU ALL FOR THE BEST FOUR YEARS OF MY LIFE!!! (so far!!)

Life threw me a few curve balls.. But oh well. I got through it by working my butt off and never letting myself give up. The two reasons I tried as hard as I did was that I knew life would stop throwing me these hurdles and finally throw me something good. The other was Ms. Barlow. I honestly wouldn't have gotten to where I am today if it wasn't for her. Sometimes I felt like these past 4 years would never end, but then I found out that it was possible to enroll at Johnson & Wales University a year early. So Instead of going to Masco for my senior year, I was already a freshman in college, which was pretty sweet. The good thing was that I still got to graduate from Masco. It was the best decision I have ever made. And to think my parents weren't even going to let me go, they know it was the best thing for me. Thank you for letting me get a head start on my dream of being a great chef.

Mom&Dad: To the best parents in the entire world. You guys have helped me through so much and I can NEVER thank you enough. We have a pretty awesome family. Love you guys so much!
Sean: (please ignore the fact that I pick on you all the time when you read this) I don't understand how people can hate their siblings so much. You're the best brother anyone could ever ask for, and a best friend, too. Keep kicking butt. :P
The Neighbors: I've grown up with you guys and will continue to for the rest of my life. I love you, my second family!
Veronica So, we've been best friends since kindergarten. How weird is that? We've grown up a lot though, that's for sure! We better stay best friends after high school..but I don't doubt that we will :)
Helene: You introduced me into the world of dance, and now dance is my world. Thank you for everything, and even though I'm not dancing at your school anymore I will be dancing. Don't worry. (and I'll come visit!) :)

Alex- Its been four years and we are finally finished. Through the ups and downs its been you and me. Through and through my best friend and closest thing to a brother. No doubt we will ride out the rest of life together.
Joseph- You are and always will be my first son to me. It was nice to have someone look up to me, and someone to take over for me when I go.
Ramon and Andrew- The two most unique people I have ever met, but by far important to me. Could not have lived and laughed with better people knowing all the experiences we've been through.
Feltaults- You guys were my family while I was in ABC. Could not be thankful enough for all the support and love.
Ben- You truly are my best friend at Masco. You remind me so much of myself and I only wish the best for you.
Cat- I will never forget you. They say high school relationships mean nothing, but so far you've meant more to me than imaginable. Your much more than a friend to me and always will be.
Novello- A guardian angel and the reason why I lasted so long. Thanks for the support.
Mom- From miles away I still felt the support and love.

[illegible] I honestly wouldn't have been able to get through anything without you. Thank you for everything you've done for me, love you.
[illegible] & [illegible] You guys are all crazy but I couldn't ask for better brothers.
[illegible] I couldn't ask for a better sister than you. I know you'll always be there for me like I will be for you even when we go our separate ways next year. I've always been able to count on you for everything since the 5th grade . We've had endless laughs and memories together, thank you for being such a great best friend, I love you so much!
[illegible] You guys always know how to make me laugh and I love how we are constantly crazy together. I love you guys so much you're the cootest friends ever.
Michelle Love you ninja turtle even though you think I'm a pain sometimes :]
[illegible] I can't even count how many laughs and stupid moments we've had together, love you Shaniqua<3
Spencer I know you'll always be there for me no matter where we end up next year, you really are my best friend, love you .
[illegible] You're the cootest dog ever.

Gratitude = the quality of being thankful

What do I have to be thankful for?
I live in a community that guarantees safety, teache enlighten me to a world of infinite possibilities, a f that gives me love, support and stability, coaches th me to my physical limits, a body that is fully functi and friends that see me for who I am.
What more do I have to ask for?
The concise answer is nothing
Why do I have to be grateful?
Because I have been given opportunities in life tha others have not been blessed with The old prover states, "It takes a community to raise a child", can way better state my situation. It has been a long dubious road here at Masconomet, but I would not for the world At this point, all I can do is say Thank

To my Mom and Dad for your comfort and guid
To my bro Taylor and sis Sara for all the good me
To my karate instructor Mr. Rogers for your leade
To Troop 81 for preparing me for the real wor
To my piano teacher Mrs. Gaboriault for the gift o
To Coaches Mahoney and Mintz for believing
And to all those who set me straight

THANK YOU; I AM NOTHING WITHOUT A YOU!!!

On my first day of high school, being a freshman, I never thought these four years would have gone by as fast as they did. Looking back as a senior now, high school was so much fun! From traveling to New York City to earning a letter for Cross Country to cheering "Go Chieftains" on a Friday night game, every second of Masco was enjoyable. It's amazing how much I have grown as a person with my class and support of my family and can't believe it is over. I had a great time being a Chieftain and will miss being one next year. Now it is time to end this chapter and start a new one in college!

Ryan you're a great friend and I have learned a lot from you and I hope you have learned just as much from me. Alpine slides are times I can never forget and will continue doing them. Make it work for you and don't work for it and we will be playing the same game, possibly together. Drew we have been friends since the first day you went to school in Boxford and you have provided me many opportunities that people can only dream of. The skills you have taught me and your love and passion for cars will always stick with me and now I know how to have fun anytime I want to.

I can't believe I am sitting here writing my senior square. Mom and Dad thanks for always being there for me whenever I needed you, and I can safely say you have had a huge influence on me. Sean your the best brother I could ask for and have been a very important part of my life and I can't see myself being where I am today without you. Doug you have been a great friend and I'd like to say thanks for everything I have had so many good times with you; riding the alpine slides and Operation Bhop to name a few. Drew we haven't been friends for that long and we have done quite a bit of funny things together, the most Memorable One being Operation Bhop I know I will ever forget that. Jake another awesome friend I'll never forget when you witnessed the funniest thing you have ever seen, that was quite a night. Ferraro Ive known you longer than most people playing hockey together when we were young was always fun and have you as a friend throughout high school has been awesome. To anyone else I didn't mention thanks for everything and sorry I couldn't write about you. Boney, Bobby, and Fahey to name a few.

I couldn't have made my high school years without my sister Katie and some of the teachers. My friends have also played a part and without then my high school years would have been dull and plain. Without the help of Miss Barlow and Miss Gould I don't know where I would be in high school. I know I have messed up my freshman and sophomore a lot, but now I'm back on track. High school was a struggle when I didn't listen to the teachers and did whatever I wanted to do, but now since I do listen to the teacher's high school is a breeze. I hope my life stays on track and now that I'm finally a senior I know pretty soon I will be going off to college and meeting new friends. I will still keep my old friends and cherish the memories we had in high school.

Mom & Dad: I know the road wasn't always smooth, but I love you both more than anything. I will always appreciate everything you've done for me, never forget that. Chris: I'm proud to say you've quickly become one of my best friends, without you I'd have no idea who I am. I'd be lost. I love you. Emily: My life got a whole lot brighter when I met you Ems, you're like the big sister I always wanted. Ali: I've never been so in sync with another person. My heart will never go on. Ten years from now you better plan on a reunion at Abercrombie Island and later on we'll have lobsters at your bus driver's house. Alysia: From fat cats & SHOBs to Taylor Swift jam sessions & mac n' cheese slumber parties, there's not a single bad memory I have of us. You're the pancake magician, and one of my closest friends, I know you're not going anywhere. Daniela: You always know how to make me laugh. I dunno what I'd do if you'd never moved here.
Gnoza: You are the black friend I never had. I'll remember who to thank for this accent I've picked up because I'll probably be bringing it with me to college. Tutti Frutti: I'll miss your lunch time stories, and reminding you on a daily basis that injured people better pray we never become EMT certified.
Brittany: you make my weekday mornings worth waking up for. RIP: the boat. I'll miss you tons, you better keep in touch. Allison: Thanks for spicing up the business room with me, and being there for all those awkward crazy things that happen whenever we hangout. I love it.
Class of 2011: Good luck!! I'll miss everyone. It's been a good 4 years; I can't believe it's over.

Sitting in Serino's period one CP Physics class, I remember it well. Serino had brought a senior down to talk to us. He told us to appreciate the times at Masco, because they really "fly by". To me, he was just some senior, but apparently the clock can only be understood when it's your last year, because I get it now. I wish I had spent more of my time at Masco honoring the moments rather than waiting for better ones; but the thing is, I wish…you don't have to. You don't really know what you have until it's gone, and only now that everything's over can I truly appreciate the little things in life. The Saturday mornings at Jacks, being within an earshot of the kids I started my life with, these were things I enjoyed, but didn't stop to appreciate. To me, moving off to college represents the end of childhood, the end of innocence, and even though I dislike school more than most, having lived life as a kid, with the people it started with, in our home, was worth every second of every class I dreaded. Enjoy it while it lasts, because it didn't last long enough for me. It's almost inevitable, I'm sure you'll feel the same. Thanks to those who deserve it, and there are certainly many of you.

("Guys. Take a moment to deal with this. We survived."
"It was a hell of a battle."
"Not the battle. High school.")

That's appropriate, I think, for this situation. It's surreal to think of where I am now—more surreal to think of the people who helped me get here. You know who you are, and you'll no doubt be receiving essays from me by the time graduation actually rolls around, but I need to thank you—all of you—from the deepest place I can possibly thank you from. Even those of you who aren't much more than acquaintances but who tolerated my inability to hold an intelligible conversation for more than two minutes… thank you. It meant more than you know. Thank you, also, to every teacher who ever dealt with me, and me being me, and me writing about myself in the third person. This isn't, you'll notice, and there are a lot of reasons for that, but I think at least one of them is that I'm… okay. Not perfect—never perfect—but okay. And I'm pretty sure that's because of all of you.

(we're gonna ditch the sad cynics saying we're all the same saying we got no really real adventures left to our name and no LOVE, and no truth, and no spark, and no mystery but I gotta take it off this rock and I'm history)

You can probably say a lot about your high school experience by looking at the people you spent it with. And while there were good times and bad times at Masco I can definitely say that I met some really great people. I wish everyone the best in their futures, whether or not we share them together. That's life, but I will treasure the memories we have made. I've got to go now, its business time ☺

Mom & Dad: Thank you for being there for me every ste of the way. You always pushed me to do the best that I could in everything I did. You have taught me so much and I love you both. Thank you. Brian & Nicole: You guys are crazy, but in the best way possible. Everyone at this school who doesn't know you is missing out. Bri, you've got three years to go. Nicole you've got even more. It won't always be easy, but I know in the end you will hav loved every minute of it. If you ever need me just call. Love you guys. Football: My dad went to his high school reunion about a year ago. He saw all the guys from his old football team, and they started talking like the seaso ended yesterday. They were bragging about pancakes and touchdowns like they'd just watched the film. I know at my high school reunion it'll be like the season ended yesterday, and we will be laughing and bragging like we just watched tape. Brotherhood. Hannah: You are so much fun and we've had so many great memories. Thank you. Friends: The greatest thing about high school is grea friends. So many good times thanks to all you guys. Alex Haring

With one look at Alex Haring, anyone will be able to see what his biggest hobby is. His well-known Bass Pro Shops hat and "Take A Fish Boating" shirt show that fishing and wildlife conservation are a true passion for Alex. He has done extensive volunteer work for the Ipswich River Watershed Association, which earned him their Volunteer of the Year Award in 2009. At the beginning of the summer of 2009, Alex identified an invasive species, Water Chestnut, in a portion of Hood's Pond. He notified the IRWA, and then aided with the removal of the species, to keep the pond clean. He also aided in the creation of a topographical map of the bottom of Hood's Pond to help fishers find the best fishing spots. An avid fisher himself, Alex was the first person to document smallmouth bass in the Ipswich River Watershed, and has caught every known species of fish residing in Hoods Pond.

Ellis Koenig

Most students take advantage of the opportunity to study abroad during college, but few travel alone to foreign countries during high school. That, however, is exactly what Ellie Koenig did for the first semester of her senior year. Ellie spent six months in Nagano, Japan, staying with various host families and attending Japanese High School. Ellie began taking online classes in Japanese during her sophomore year and quickly developed a strong affinity for the language. Although her interest in Japanese culture began through things such as anime, she grew out of that when she found new interests in the the country. During her six-month stay in Japan, Ellie took classes in chemistry, math, history, as well as English grammar and oral communication. In Japan, Ellie's fascination with the culture grew as she got the opportunity to experience the true fashion, music, architecture and language of the country. She says the most amazing part of the total immersion experience is that when she went, she had very little language knowledge and experience, but by the end she was completely fluent.

Kenny Ott

nny Ott has made a large difference in the Masco ommunity by involving himself in a truly inspirational ampaign, the Relay for Life. In 2010, he brought the ational Program to Masco, in a Relay that took place n June 18th to 19th, 2010. Kenny participated in the ay as a survivor, a team captain, and the midnight peaker. His speech, "Fight Back," was a motivational ibute to his battle with cancer which gave ncouragement for others that are still struggling with e disease to pull through. This year, Kenny is the co-hair of the Masconomet Relay for Life, with senior ebecca Nason. Outside of Masco relays, Kenny is volved with the program through promotions of lay for Life, The American Cancer Society, and the merican Red Cross. Kenny also speaks at various ents at different colleges, high schools, and town ents to spread his message about his battle with ancer, and the beneficial effects of programs like e Relay for Life.

Romeo Versus Juliet

Most students are involved in music at some point during high school, but few take it to the level that Romeo Versus Juliet has. Made up of Masco seniors Connor Hillier, Steve VanGeyte and Jake King, along with Kevin McElroy from Marblehead High and Cabot Dow from Swampscott, Romeo Versus Juliet has taken their music to new levels. Since their formation in August of 2010, they have opened for popular bands such as Buckcherry and Farewell Dreamer. They have also toured on their own and played at various venues around the New Hampshire and Massachusetts area. Their musical influence comes from popular Hardcore bands such as Asking Alexandria, the Devil Wears Prada, We Came As Romans and Bring Me the Horizon. Despite their tremendous success so far, their future is uncertain because the members are all headed in separate directions next year. When asked about this, guitarist Steve VanGeyte responded, "It will be hard to stay together next year, but we are going to do what we can so we can keep making music."

The lights at Bunker Stadium illuminated for the first time on a cool Friday night in September. Each Masconomet football player took the field for the 2010 season with ferocity. The bleachers, filled with red and white, erupted as the patter of cleats crossed over the track. Parents, students, and teachers joined together with the pep band to cheer the Masco boys through their valiant season.

Captains Tom Chub, Eric Bermudez, Kurt Hunziker, and Brodie Green led the team through the season with determination and intensity. "Although we did not meet our goals of winning the championship of the Cape Ann League, the players worked very hard in the off season and during the season. Their commitment and dedication was once again outstanding," said Coach Jim Pugh, about the team's season.

The Chieftains battled courageously against CAL Champions North Andover, and although they fell short in scoring, they played with determination that has followed them through their high school football careers.

The 2010 fall season was full of success for the Masco cheerleaders. The success was not only in competition but also in team bonding. "We're like one big family" says junior cheerleader Marissa Angelone. Their great teamwork and determination won them 1st place at the Natick Invitational. With this new achievement and some motivational speeches from captain Danielle Dube the team went on to place 2nd at CALS. Its no question that these grls are "Fabulous", "Fierce", and definitley "The team to fear."

The golf team's season has been one for the records. Led by captains Alex Kane, Jack Rogers, and Taylor Bambury the team finished as CAL champs with a record breaking, undefeated season of 12-0 for the first time since 1980. The team went on to the Division 2 North State Sectionals and came in 4th place ending their season. Alex Kane and Charlie May however, qualified for the individual state finals with a 2nd place tie of 79. "Alex and Charlie have really set the tone for the kids this year," said coach Ben Hodges, in the Boston Globe. Alex ended up with 4th place in the individual state finals and Charlie May came in 25th. On top of an amazing season Alex Kane was named player of the year in the Cape Ann League. The team's hard work and determination paid off with an amazing season this year.

After losing ten seniors and picking up a new coach, many thought that this would simply be a rebuilding year for the Field Hockey team. As the new head coach, Meagan Hildebrand brought with her a whole new style of play. She developed a team that produced more offensively and built a defensive line that shut down anyone who came near. The quality of play improved significantly over recent years, which was evident as the team's shooting average skyrocketed. Assistant Coach Leah Gunner also joined the program to take over head coach Hildebrand's previous position as assistant and defensive coach. Captains Pam Herter and Elizabeth Doyle led their team to a 9-6-4 season, advancing them into the first round of states where they met up against a prevailing Westford Academy.

The Volleyball Team had another successful season as they advanced to the state tournament with a record of 14-6. The girls won the first round of states against Lexington in 5 games, but slipped while playing opponent Reading in the quarter finals. Finishing the season with an overall record of 15-7, the team was very satisfied. "This season we were so in sync on and off the court and it really showed when we played," said Captain Taylor Hesse. The Masco Volleyball Team showed their unyielding power and determination this season. Great job MVB!

Girls Cross Country

After graduating the top two runners on the team, Masco Girls Cross Country surprised everyone, including themselves, by having a breakout season. With a total of 106 girls, the "Bunnies" dwarfed their competitors in size, skill, and spirit. Senior captains Eleanor Hardy, Kelly Weaver, Sophie Fabbri, and Abby Warren along with coach Joe Casey had no trouble bringing the large group of girls together, inspiring them to push each other to do their individual best. "I was really proud of the girls this year and how they came together, despite their grades and social groups," said Weaver. Junior MacKenzie Shelgren consistently ran first for Masco, proving she had the capability to lead the team. Never out of sight was Kimmy Cosgrove, a freshman that surprised the team after joining half way through the season. Seniors Sophie Fabbri and Kayla Andrews as well as juniors Taylor and Shannon Beaton also proved themselves in every race. The constant hard work of the team culminated to a CAL champ title this season, finishing with a record of 11-1. There is no doubt this team will have a successful future thanks to the large amount of promising underclassmen.

Boys Cross Country

On fall afternoons on the Masconomet track, students could witness an unusual event signaling the start of practice for the Boy's Cross Country team. Each day at the start of warm ups, the boy's team would run laps around the track without their shoes. The boys were participating in one of the many innovative training exercises instituted by head coach Pat Mahoney. These new ideas, in addition to the hard work and dedication of the team's 60 members, led Masconomet Boy's Cross Country team to a winning record of 8-4. Leading the pack were senior captains Ben Hiromura and Greg Bjornstad, respectively winning 7 and 9 races and both receiving all-league honors. Other top runners this year were seniors Dylan Harper and Billy Flynn. The future looks bright thanks to underclassmen runners Liam Davis, Matthew Mudgett, Chris Folsom, and Kevin "K-Mart" Martin, who annihilated the home course record for fastest time by a freshman. "The boys put a lot of effort into this season and I'm really proud of them," said coach Pat Mahoney.

This year the Masconomet Boy's Soccer team exceeded all expectations, having an exceptional season despite the loss of a considerable number of seniors the previous year. The boys pulled off a nearly-perfect season with a 15-1-2 record, earning them the title of CAL Champs. Captains Derek Schleer, DJ Clark, and Brady Forcier led the team to victory countless times this season. Other key players included senior goalie Jason Katz and juniors Chad Burke, Charlie Behrens, as well as sophomore Chip Sherman. Despite the age differences amongst the team members, they bonded during pasta parties and Tuesday night trips to Hooters. Becoming united was critical to their success since the boys tackled a demanding schedule this season, playing well together through difficult games in all types of weather. "I set up some pretty tough initial games and when they won all three, I realized the team had serious potential," said Coach Lenny Emmons. The boys took their potential, and turned it into success, so that they could truly continue their Tradition of Excellence.

Led by senior captains Molly Church, Kaitlin Sampson, and Amy Griffith, the chieftains have built off of the success of last year's season, finishing with a record of 17-2-2. Composed of a strong core group of seniors, the team showed off its strength early in the season, winning seven of its first eight games, with one ending in a tie. Coach Paula Yankakis is committed to keeping motivation high for all her players. "We have nine seniors and we want to make it a memorable season for them. So we take each and every game seriously." This season they did just that, striving towards their annual goals of CAL champions and participation in the Division 1 State Tournament. Despite the anticipated loss of a large number of seniors, the program next year is looking to juniors like Taylor Evans and Mia Farnham to take initiative as key players.

Boys Ski Team is comprised of a steezy mix of young men who came together to rock the slopes of Bradford. The boys did just that this season, earning a record of 6-4, and an impressive finish in the CAL. The Boys Varsity Team had skiers of all grades, freshmen to seniors, who united to create a cohesive and successful team. Led by seniors Mike Broms, Nevin Clay and Sam Schartz, the boys worked hard all season. "We had a very diverse team this year, but everyone came together to help the team have a successful season. Everyone put in a tremendous amount of effort to help make the team great." said senior Captain Mike Broms. The boys had to face powerful Northeast teams such as Andover and North Andover to end with a winning record. Seniors Mike Broms, Nevin Clay, Sam Schwatrz, and Jack Hamburger represented the school well at the Interscholastic Meet.

The Masconomet Boy's track team had an especially strong season this winter, relying heavily on the contribution of senior runners to lead the team in spirit as well as in points earned. All three senior captains, Doug Madden, Ben Hiromura, and David Searles qualified for the All State Meet in their events. Hiromura, who was victorious in every league race he ran this season, consistently dominated the distance events, backed up by sophomores Jake Moorman and Alex Gikas. Keeping with the captain's tradition of excellence, sprinter Searles also went undefeated in the regular season. Ultimate Frisbee

Spring after spring, the Masco Ultimate team is assembled with an interesting mix of returning players and new raw talent. This year, captains Alan Spencer and Sam Warner are leading a young squad after losing seven seniors to graduation last year, five of them starters. Last season ended in a 2nd place finish in the Mass. State Tournament, the best ever for the program. Improvement has always been the goal of the Masco Ultimate program, but this has never been as tall of a task as it is this year. The regular season and Andover Pre-season Invitational will be a developmental period for the team, in hopes of repeating their success in the state tournament, which they have participated in each of the last seven years. This season presents a challenge but with a chance to turn Ultimate into a fixture of success in the Masco community.

Walking the halls of masco with broomsticks in hand, the Masconomet Quidditch team turned the heads of students and teachers alike. "No one had ever thought to start a team here before, so when a few of our seniors began playing casual pick up games around town, we decided to make it official," says Pam Herter, a senior captain. This year the Masconomet team played numerous pickup games during the spring season. Captains Pam Herter, Katie Kraunelis, and Nick Bettencourt worked to raise awareness of the fledgling sport and promote wizard-muggle unity. Chasers Herter and Kraunelis, accompanied by senior starter Julia O'Keefe, made a formidable trio on the pitch. All-State beating duo Bettencourt and senior Jay Casey led the league as beaters, carrying bats to hit bludgers away from their teammates. Keeper Kelly Weaver guarded the three goals with ferocity, against any and all chasers foolish enough to face her. Seeker Sam Warner had possibly the teams most crucial role, charged with capturing the elusive golden snitch.

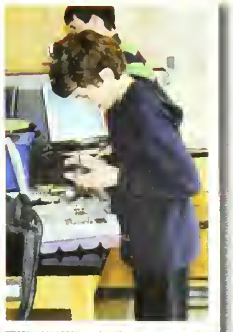
Meets often resemble a chemical reaction: although the outcome is uncertain, the results of the experiment yield much information to study and learn from.

Robotics Club



Robotics Club members can be found at Masco even late into the night still working hard on new inventions. Students interested in learning more about science, technology, and the way that things work are seen filing into Mr. Kurtz's room weekly. The robots that they collectively build compete and are showcased at local high schools. This club gets wired about robots!

Chinese Club

Despite being one of the newer language courses offered at Masconomet, the Chinese classes have generated a lot of new members for the Chinese Club. The members are a bright and passionate group of students who share a common interest in the Chinese language and culture. Advisor Li Ai is able to teach the kids through her first-hand experiences growing up in Shang Hai. The club seeks to spread their knowledge of the Chinese culture to all students at Masco through events such as field trips and projects.

Spanish Club

Spanish Club, one of the more active language clubs at Masco, helps to spread enthusiasm about Spanish culture. Spanish movie festivals and the celebration of cultural holidays like "Día de los Muertos" are among some of their more involved activities. Continuing the the success of last year, the Spanish Club sold Chupa Chups to the Masco students, raising money for the club. Led by advisor Señor Donahue, the club continues to be a highlight of Masco's language department.

French Club

The French Club is an exciting and educational foreign language club at Masco. Members are dedicated students who share a common passion for the French language, culture, and cuisine. The club expands its study of French society with various activities such as attending French films and touring a Creperie. Along with advisor Madame Boucher, the club organizes numerous fundraisers to help redistribute French textbooks to less fortunate school districts to utilize into their curriculums.

WBMT

WBMT is a club that provides the students of Masco with a voice in radio. The club members are assigned shifts in the afternoon, during which they choose the songs and content played for the people of the Tri Town. Listeners can hear WBMT 88.3 every weekday from 3-9 p.m. and enjoy the work of Masco's students while becoming exposed to a variety of new music styles. The enthusiastic members are advised by Mr. Novello and Mr. Czarnecki.

Exit 51

Exit 51 is a club devoted to publishing the creative works of Masco students. Each year, student created art, photos, stories, and poems are put together into a literary arts magazine, Exit 51. Advisor Mrs. DeLovo works with each member of the club as they build every issue into a unique representation of the talents of the Masconomet student body. These works help highlight the best of the visual and literary arts.

Habitat for Humanity

The Habitat for Humanity club is a charitable organization linked with the National Habitat for Humanity Association . It is a popular community service opportunity at Masco that provides students with the opportunity to volunteer at local build sites and help the construction crews who work there on a daily basis. The club also participates in the national "Act! Speak! Build! Week," where they raise awareness and money to emphasize Habitat's efforts. "(Advisor) Mr. Scarpaci's passion for the community inspires the group to do their best" said President Pam Herter.

Environmental Club

Building off of last year's successes with water purifiers installed in the school cafeterias, the Environmental Club, led by advisor Mr. Love and presidents David Searles and Paige Carncross, now turns its focus to a school-wide recycling initiative, continuing the tradition of collecting and redeeming recyclables every Friday. Profits from bottle redemptions will help pay for the water purifiers, which are still free to all students. New programs this year include the creation of an Earth Week dedicated to various earth-friendly activities. Events like these highlight Masconomet students' dedication to going green.

ABC

A Better Chance, also known as ABC, is a program that gives students who would otherwise not have access to quality schooling the opportunity to study at Masconomet. Six intelligent and hardworking young men reside in Topsfield at the ABC house, where Masconomet hosts them. The ABC club, lead by enthusiastic Co-presidents Angel Cruz, Alex Camerena, VP Magraret Rizza, and Secretary Danielle Thorpe, supports the program through fundraisers such as the annual Bike-A-Thon and the ABC auction.

GSA

The Gay Straight Alliance, also referred to as the GSA, is an extremely welcoming and proactive group headed by advisor Ms. Murphy and Co-presidents Rebecca Nason and Sage Magnant. The goal of this club is to create a school environment that is non-repressive where students can learn and flourish regardless of their sexual orientation or gender expression. The GSA sponsors Masconomet's participation in the National Day of Silence. On this day, students and teachers all over Masco show their support for the cause. Open Mic Night, GLSEN Annual Conference, and MA Youth Pride are other major events the GSA is involved in.

GIV

GIV is committed to inspriring students to give back and gain a sense of philanthropy towards undeveloped countries. By raising funds, they have been able to donate over 100 XO laptops to elementary schools in Africa as part of an effort to encourage opportunity through learning and empowerment. The club has conducted many fundraisers including Masco Madness, Battle of the Bands, and a GIV fashion show. With advisor, Mrs. Wood, the club looks forward to many more fundraising opportunities and another successful year.

Womens Inc.

In its first year of operation, the Women's Inc. group, founded by Diana Hughes, seeks to empower and celebrate girls and women everywhere. This group deals with some of the issues effecting high school girls, hosting fundrasiers and raising awareness to help address issues that girls face. Women's Inc. is trying to make the school a place for girls to encourage each other and let these girls know that the people around them want them to succeed.

SPAR

Students Protecting Animal Rights, more commonly known as SPAR, is a club whose main goal is to bring awareness to the ethical treatment of animals. The club holds fundraisers such as bake sales to raise funds for local shelters, like the North East Animal Shelter in Salem, MA. One new activity this year was to bring in representatives from MCAR (Massachusetts Coalition of Animal Rights) to educate club members about local issues. Vice President Kara DiBenedetto says "it's important to be educated on animal rights because a way society treats its animals is indicative to how a society treats its people."

SERT

SERT, known as the Student Emergency Response Team, is a select group of upperclassman who have excelled in the higher levels of Masconomet's Medical curriculum. Students are required to take the EMT class, and are individually chosen to participate in emergency situations. This responsibility is not taken lightly, and students are expected to play an active role in planning emergency response protocols. Advisor Mr. West provides instruction to the group as they work to keep Masco a safe place during an emergency.

Sign Language

The newest addition to Masco's clubs is the Sign Language Club. Started by Juniors Molli Marshall, Julia SImonetti, and Colby Hamilton, the club was created to promote awareness of the deaf community. The members meet with Ms. Bynum twice a week to learn sign language and expand their knowledge of deaf culture. Members plan to use their skills to reach out to the local deaf community.

Tri-Town Council

Tri-Town Council is a non-profit organization that collaborates with schools, parents, kids, law enforcement, and local organizations to solve problems and improve the community. The group helps to raise awareness of current issues impacting youth in the Tri-Town. During a typical meeting the club members might discuss ideas about different types of community service and activities that promote a healthy life style.

Fishing Club

The Masco Fishing Club has been extremely active this year, making several trips to the Amazon, the Congo, and Alaska. Advisor Mr. Yutkins aids co-captains Alex Haring and Kenny Ott run this selective group. Treasurer Nick Bettencourt has been busy poaching narwhals off the coast of Myanmar to help fund the club. Molly Church has been a big help this year as well, scaling, gutting, and filleting the fish; a job she can really get her hands into. Her specialty is creating an almost magical chum from the guts, a secret family recipe that we hope she'll share with us someday.

Photo Club

Photography club was formed to help aspiring photographers improve their skills and show off their artistic ability outside of the classroom. New activities are planned every week including critiques, demos with modern photography, and slideshows. Led by advisor Julie Colotti, the club takes occasional field trips to nearby locations to practice new shots with traditional film and digital photography. Students in the club also have the opportunity to have their photographs published in the school's weekly page of the Tri-Town Transcript, the Chieftain Chronicle.

Student Council

The Student Council is a group that allows students to become active in their student government, and help their class and school run smoothly. It is comprised of class officers for each grade level, as well as class representatives, and an executive board. Through the leadership of advisor Mr. Maguire and President Eric Bermudez, student council runs events such as Homecoming, Spirit Day, and of course the Mr. Masco fundraiser. They are also involved in community service projects such as a St. Patrick's Day dinner for local senior citizens, and clothing drives for the underprivileged.

National Honor Society

The New Meadows chapter of the National Honor Society is a prestigious group of students dedicated to service, leadership, and academic achievement. Students who qualify and are accepted as members meet the highest standards of excellence at Masconomet. Advisor Ms. Wildman facilitates members to participate in a variety of service projects and events, fulfilling additional community service requirements and attending and ushering at ceremonies and events. NHS members are some of the Masconomet community's most valued students.

Model United Nations

Participating in the Model UN team gives students the opportunity to gain better knowledge of international relations. Through heated debates, students build skills in diplomacy and compromise. Educational, yet enjoyable trips are taken annually to both Harvard University and New York City, where team members participate in regional conferences. The hard work and dedication of the members of Masconomet's Model UN is extremely admirable. Head delegates Kelly Weaver, Abby Warren, Alex Romagnoli, and Kate Nash all worked extremely hard to ensure the success and smooth running of the trips.

Best Buddies

Best Buddies, run by Ms. Finnegan, is an organization that allows disabled students to socialize and interact with other students. The goal is to build social skills and develop long lasting friendships. Throughout the year this club sponsers fun activities such as fundraisers and get togethers. One of the goals of the Best Buddies program is to make every student an important member of the Masconomet community.

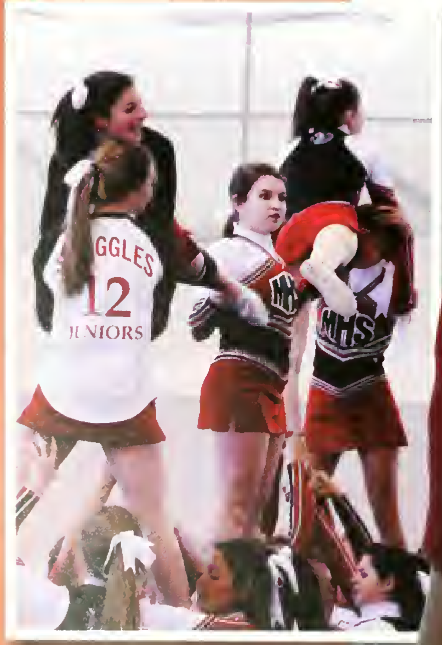
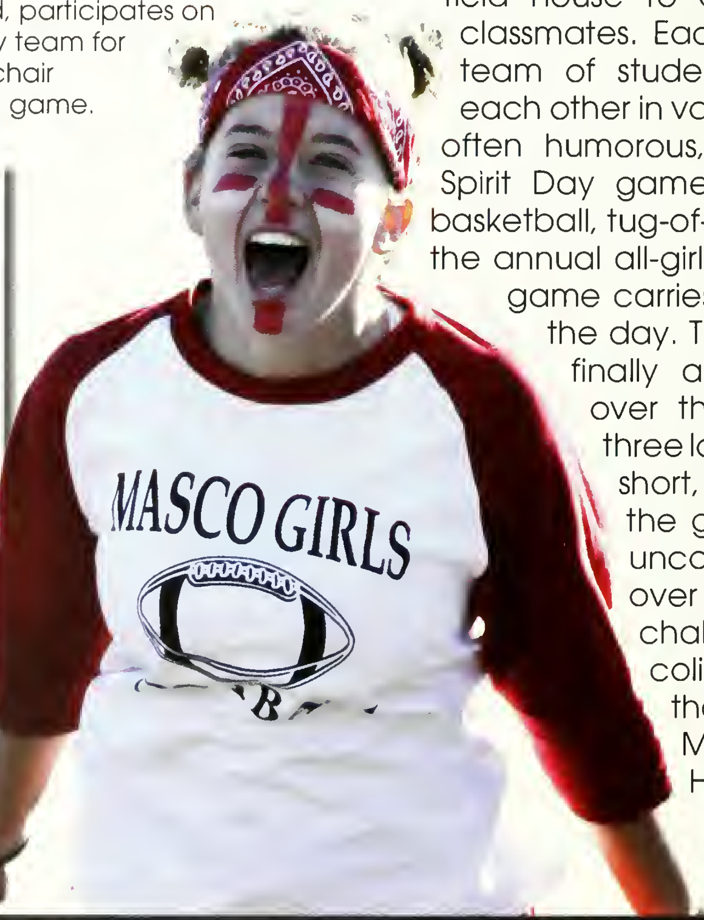
Spirit Day

New Superintendant, Dr. Lockwood, participates on the faculty team for the roller-chair basketball game.





Every year, the day before the Thanksgiving break, students pile into the field house to cheer on their fellow classmates. Each grade assembles a team of students to compete with each other in various competitive, and often humorous, activities. Traditional Spirit Day games such as roller-chair basketball, tug-of-war, a relay race, and the annual all-girl powederpuff football game carries the students through the day. The senior class of 2011 finally achieved total victory over the other classes after three long years of coming up short, and finallly attained the goal of complete and uncontested supremacy over all who would dare to challenge them in the coliseum-like atmosphere that has become the Masconomet Field House.

Chorus

The Masconomet Chorus program provides students the opportunity to experience music and to perform in a variety of vocal ensembles. Candidates must audition and receive approval from the department head before joining the selective Chorale and Chamber Choir. Other groups include Singers Ensemble, Ladies Chorale, and Jazz Choir. Whether at school assemblies or recitals, the Chorus continues to impress the Masconomet community.

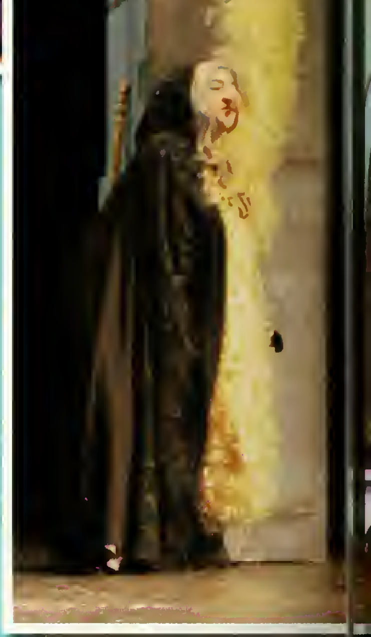
Drama Department



Rebecca Nason play
the Witch in this scene

The Drama Department is comprised of a group of students that are interested in putting on two stellar performances per year. Each year they put together one musical and one play. The Drama Department started off their year with their Fall Musical "Into the Woods." "Into the Woods" is a delightful mashup of classic fairytales such as "Little Red Riding Hood," "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Cinderella." It tells the tale of a Baker and his Wife who go on a journey to lift the curse that was placed upon them. The roles were perfected by Brad Goulter as the Baker, Anastas Varinos as Jack, Elena Eimert as Little Red Riding Hood, Sydney Fisher as Cinderella, and Rebecca Nason as the Witch. The cast was rounded out by Joby Lavery and Anaximander Heiter performing royally as princes, as well as Justina Kennefick as the Bakers Wife, and Dan Proctor as the Big Bad Wolf. The play premiered on the 19th of November, and was a huge success.

Peer Leading

A select group of Juniors and Seniors are chosen every spring to become a part of The Masconomet Peer Leading program. The goal of the program is to help freshman assimilate to high school life with the guidance of role model upperclassmen. The first major event for the Peer Leaders is Freshman Orientation, during which the Peer Leaders and the Freshman come together to explore the high school and work on team building exercises. The incoming class is divided into groups of 12-15 Freshmen, each group consisting of three to four Peer Leaders. The Upperclassmen answer questions, provide Freshmen with advice based on personal experiences, and give the Freshmen a positive experience at Masco. Another important event for Peer Leaders is Masco in Motion, better known to the school as the Freshman Walk. The Peer Leaders and the Freshmen work together to raise money for a cause. This year the Freshman class set a school record raising a total of $35,000 for the Jimmy Fund, which went directly to patient care at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute. Other events include the Club Fair, Peer Leading breakfasts, and the 12 Days of Giving. Advisors Karen Wood and Reilly Finnegan make these events successful with the dedication they put into helping the Freshman class.

Bobby,
Remember to be true to your dreams, and keep them alive. Never let anyone change your mind about what you feel you can achieve. Always believe in yourself. Be giving, forgiving, patient and kind and listen to the voice that tells you to be your best self. Be true to yourself in the paths that you choose. Follow your talents and passions; don't take the roads others say you must follow because they are the most popular. Take the paths where your talents will thrive - the ones that will keep you enthusiastic. Most of all, never forget that there is no brighter light than the one within you. Keep on being true to yourself. Follow your inner light to your own personal greatness, and remember that we admire you and love you just as you are. We are so very proud of you. Congratulations!
Love you.....Mom, Dad & Erin

Shave. You warm our hearts. You make us proud. You help us laugh. And even put us in awe. You truly drive life's special moments. As you approach new chapters in your life, remain true to your heart; and be proud of the dazzling, confident, inspiring, and entertaining person you have become. You have a knack for collecting smiles and positively impacting others. We have experienced that first-hand. We will be cheering you every step of the way, and look forward to watching our little shaver (sorry we wrote that) reach her dreams and always find the fun in life! Thank you for the beautiful memories, the 18-year adventure, and for being...You.

Dear Nina,

Words cannot describe how proud we are of you! We feel so blessed that you have become such a kind, compassionate and beautiful young lady. You are an amazing daughter, sister, and friend to all, who has always put others before yourself. You have accomplished so much growing up, and we know you will continue to do the same as you enter the next chapter of your life. You have the ability to reach all of your goals and make your dreams come true. Don't forget that we will always be here for you with love and support. We look forward to watch you succeed and be as happy as you can be. We will miss you so much!

We love you beyond words, Mom, Dad, Kayla, Lauren and Miles.

KEEP YOUR TALENTS AND DREAMS ALIVE

Danielle

Your life is yours - an empty stage, a blank sceen - with you as the artist. You are free to create what you want. Always remember the vast potential with which you have been blessed and on this journey these are the gifts we wish for you. The courage to stand up for what you believe in; a level head; a warm heart; a sense of humor to get you through any situation; the ability to keep growing and learning as life brings changes; a positive outlook for the future; the love and support of friends and family; and the confidence and inspriration to follow your dreams wherever they may take you.

Abbey, Doosie, Do, Bear – It doesn't matter what we call you, because we know one thing, and that is we're proud to call you our daughter. You are a bright, funny and warm person and you have so much to offer the world. You have given us years of joy and we have watched with pride as you excelled in all your athletic endeavors. Looking forward to cheering you on from the sidelines of life as you prepare for what lies ahead. Dream big and shoot for the moon – even if you miss, you'll land among the stars!

Kaitlin,

I find it hard to believe that it is time for you to graduate High School and go off to college! We enjoyed watching you grow into the mature beautiful woman you are. Standing on the sidelines watching you play soccer has been some of our proudest moments as your parents! You have grown to be a very compassionate and caring young lady, and you often put the needs of others before yours.

I know all your amazing qualities will help you reach all the success you look to achieve in college and life!

May your life always be filled with joy of friends and family, and may each day bring you the pleasures and deep rewards of love and friendship.

May your heart always be at peace. In steady and uncertain times, may you always know God walks with you as a source of comfort and peace in your thoughts, your beliefs, and your life.

Congratulations!
